Our Principal

D F O'Hearn

Dignified in appearance and gracious in manner is our principal, Mr. Daniel F. O'Hearn. His genuine personal interest in us and our problems has made our years at Steinmetz memorable . . . indeed . . . A truly modern school executive is he, an example of the understanding that exists today between teacher and student.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL

Mr. Grover C. Ramsey

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANTS

Mr. Walter B. Herrick

Mr. Herbert A. Jackson

Mrs. Elma Boughton

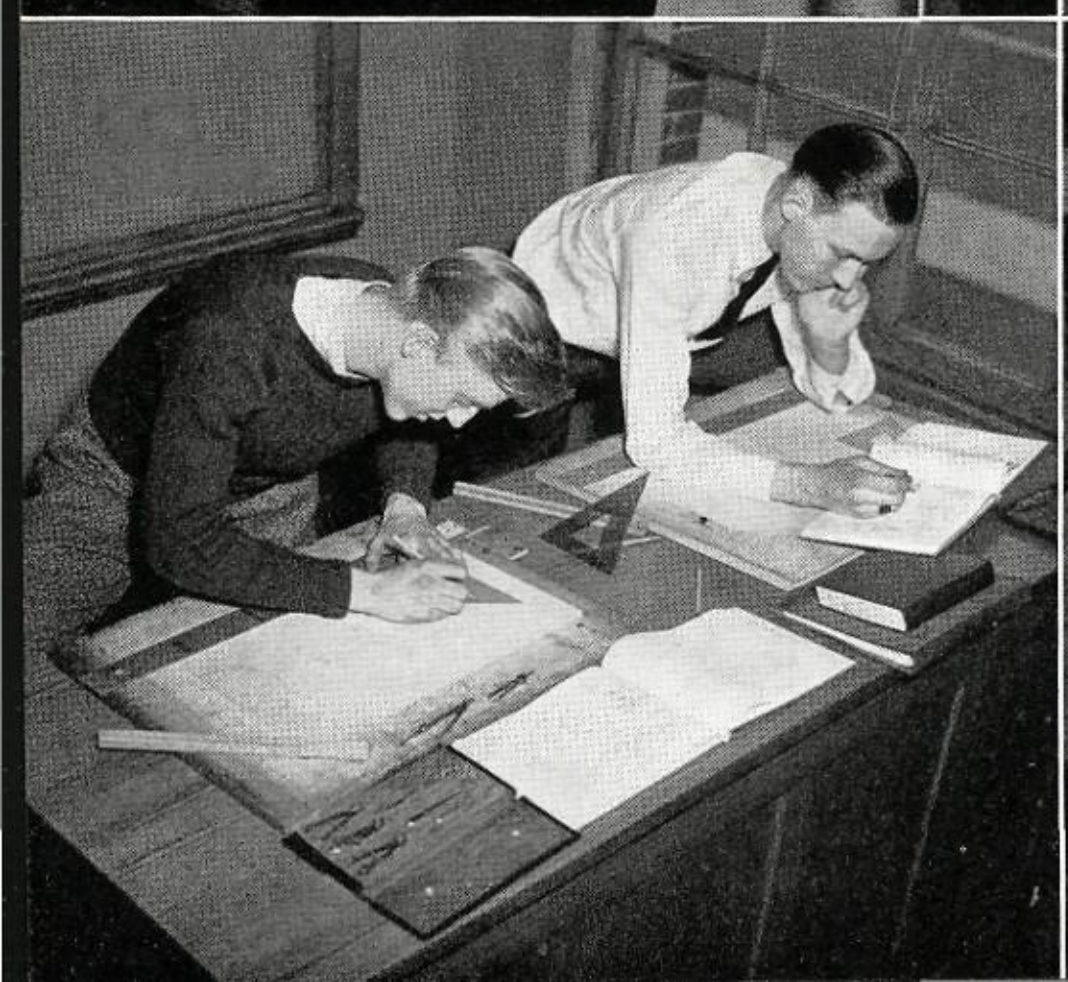
A civics class — the senior studies his government.

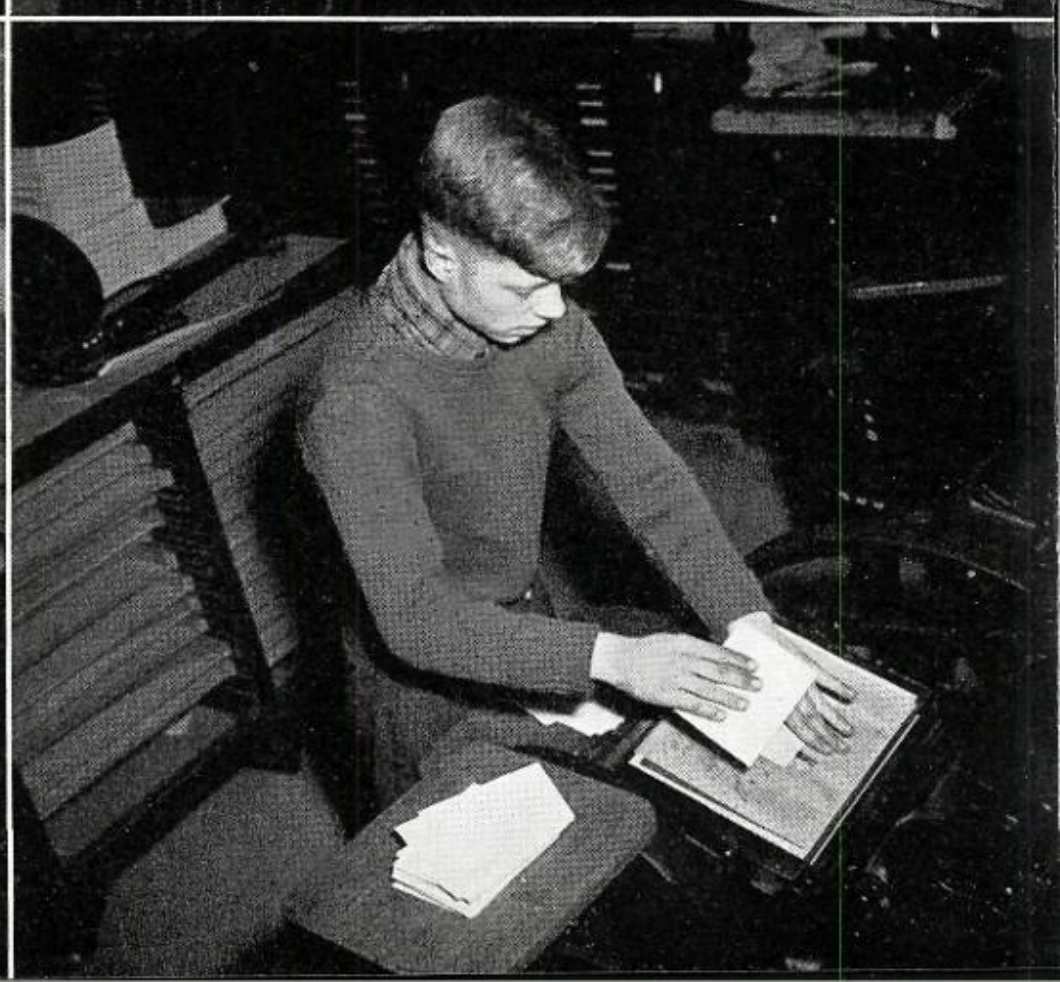
They make a recording—in an English class.

Accuracy—by-word of future draftsmen.

Newest addition to the art class—interior decorating.

They learn the A B C's of printing.





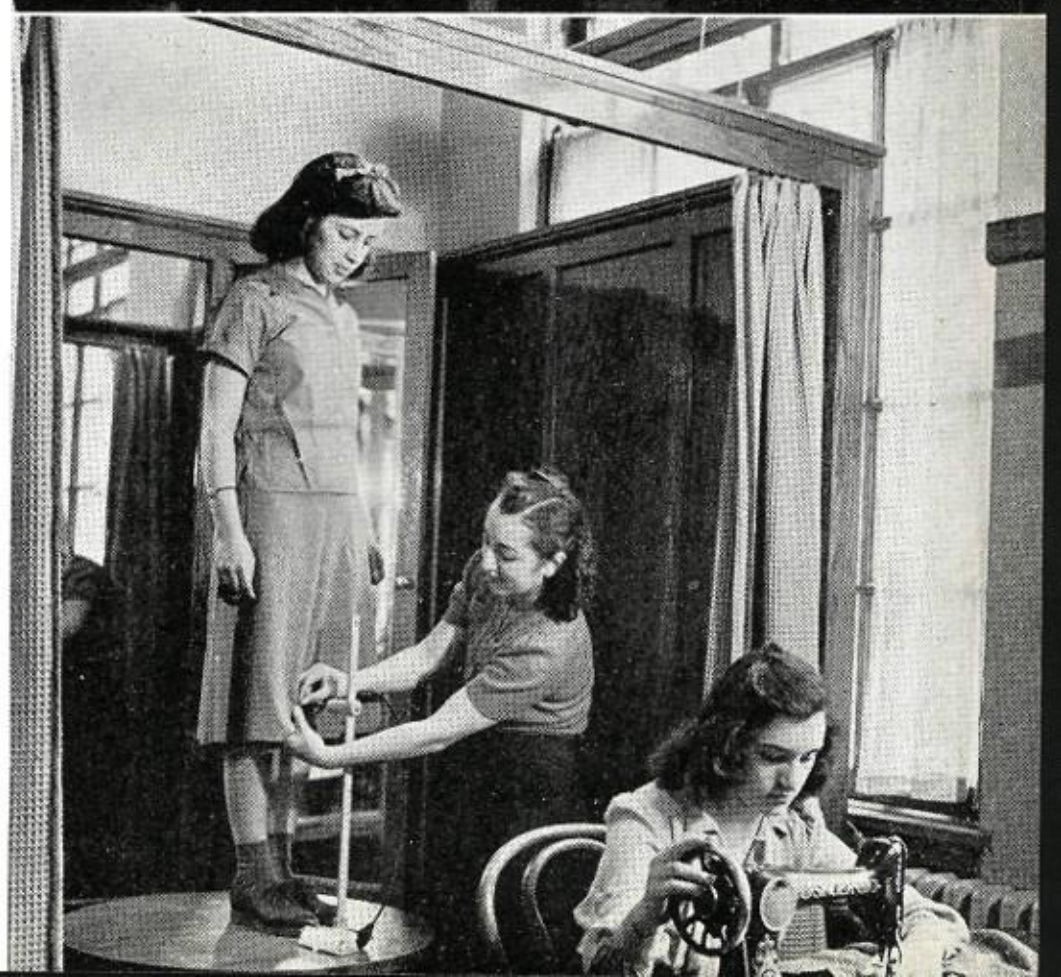
It All Happens Here

Zoology—fish, frogs, mice, and men.

Again we—"strike-up-the-band."

Botany—flowers, seeds, plants, and trees.

They guarantee a perfect fit.



They will take a bounding leap

Reserve Officers Training Corp

Present

"There's something about a soldier" that appeals to everyone. There is a special appeal on Federal Inspection Day. We are thrilled when we see our soldiers, cadet to the highest ranking officer, strut past proudly in review. This year our pride burst all bounds, for it was the first time the inspection had been held on our own campus. The clear, sunny sky, the fresh green campus, and the cadets in parade dress were an inspiring sight.

Present Arms!

The pride of the battalion is the Picked Platoon. Under Capt. Howard Correll they have carried off honors by placing fifth in the annual Platoon Competition. Their fautless precision is the result of countless hours of drilling. Every cadet endeavors to become, some day, a member of this unit of experts.

The trigger men practice in one of the finest rifle ranges in the city. In the recent Sixth Corps Area Matches these crack shots reached a new peak and brought new honors to the battalion. . . . The Battalion Staff direct our R. O. T. C. We claim it is an outstanding staff in every way. It claims the distinction of having the only woman technical sergeant in Chicago, Miss Pearl Dierks.

Student

Promptly at the beginning of the tenth period each Thursday the meetings of the Student Council are called to order by the president. The members, representatives of the students, meet to discuss problems which pertain to school. Most of the work of this organization is done through committees, whose activities this year have resulted in an unusually active program.

The installation of a new public address system, which the school has been enjoying this last semester, was suggested by our representatives. An enthusiastic group planned a dinner at the Oak Park Arms Hotel to celebrate the accomplishments of our football team. Our active council sponsored a talent show of South American theme, conducted its usual award assembly, and presented the school with a Chicago flag. These accomplishments would mean a full calendar for any club, but delegates pictured below found time to demonstrate a typical meeting for the benefit of a class at Northwestern University.

Bernard Kelly, chief justice of the fall court session, presides over a typical court scene, and a gallery of visitors from Sayre Branch witness a trial.

National Honor Society

A goal aimed for by many but gained by few is membership in the National Honor Society. The fourfold qualifications for membership—scholarship, leadership, service, and character: the stately Initiation Assembly, the festive breakfast held at the end of each semester, and the green tassel on the graduation cap, each and all, demand the admiration and respect of those who are not fortunate enough to qualify as members.

Dardanelles

The Mothers' Day Tea, the Identification Picture Project, and the plans for furnishing the civics room were overshadowed this year by the high-light of the Dardanelle season. The Round-Up Committees were formed and plans were made early in the season for a gala party and reunion of Dardanelle members on the evening of January 9, 1941, at the Oak Park Arms Hotel. One hundred seven girls met to renew old friendships and to make new ones. There were career girls and mothers, professional women and students present. From the oldest members, the 1935 group, to the newest, the 1941 group, all declared it a fine beginning of an annual Round-Up.

Sigma Quad

They roll eggs down the hall, make public proposals on bended knee, stroll in pairs of unmatched shoes, and crown themselves with wreaths of flowers. Members of a home for the feeble-minded? No, just Steinmetz halls on Sigma Quad Initiation Day. Boys in the Quad are upper classmen who take home a report card of G or better. They are willing workers, for service is their motto.

Office Service

"Yes, we'll look up the program and send you a copy . . . her division is 268 . . . you're welcome" . . . This is the pleasant routine job of the Office Service Girls . . . They are also personal secretaries to the teachers and assistants to the clerks in the office . . . Because of the practice this work affords, the club has many enthusiastic members who enjoy their work.

Harrison. Row 4: E. Murray, L. Fallon, D. Laufer, E. Olsen.

Clean-Up Campaign

Most of the work of the Clean-Up Campaign is carried on by the committees. Each committee has a particular job. One gives an annual clean-up play of Steinmetz and presents short, comic skits at neighboring elementary schools. One takes pictures of unsightly sections of the community before and after the campaign. Another holds slogan contests and compiles a beautiful scrap book containing records of the activity of the campaign.

BUILDING AND BOOK COMMITTEE

Stage Crew

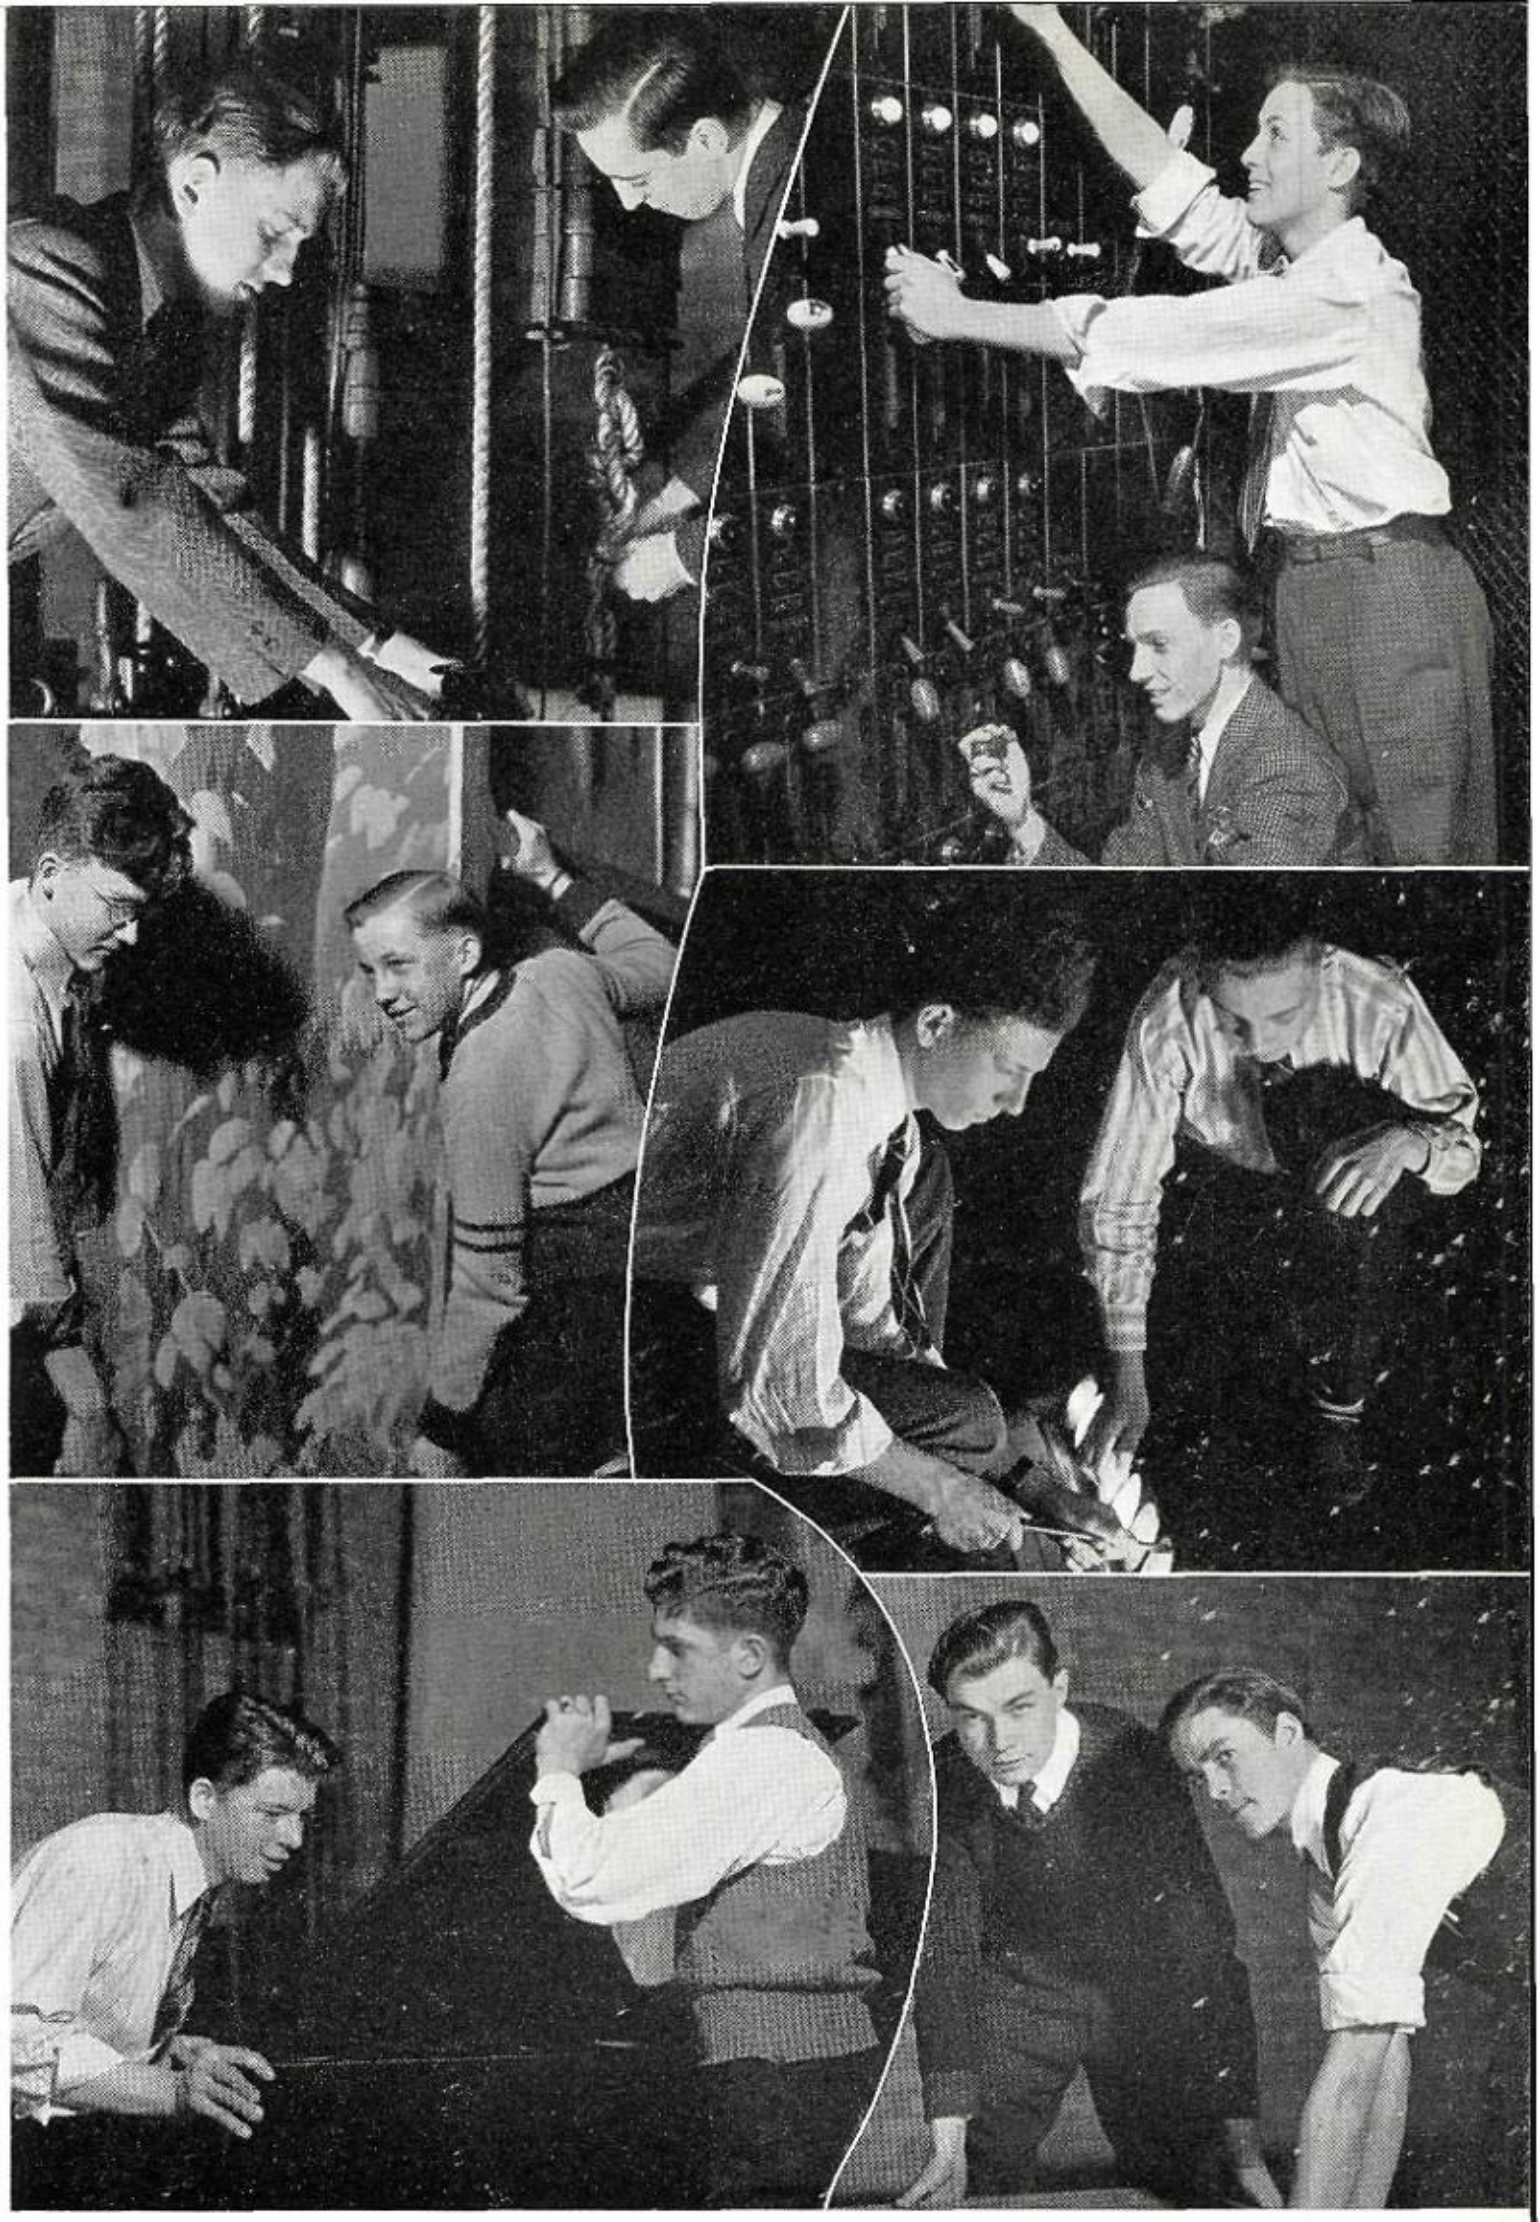
K. Johnson, Co-Chief Technician, and L. Murcek are at the pulleys.

These boys are the efficient stage crew managers—L. Fahlander and M. Harges.

R. Prisching and O. Schmidt fix the floodlights.

With Scenery, J. McCoy and N. Cizek adjust the scenery.

I. Sandback and W. Garbarino get ready for a program and R. Erickson and S. Krampach get ready for Silver Streak pictures.



When "Testing 1-2-3-4" echoes throughout the assembly hall, we know that the stage crew is on the job as usual. Adjusting the "mike", turning on the floodlights, and raising the curtain are only a few of the tasks of these willing workers. Mr. Chas. Gecan, the director, has organized a proficient system for taking care of stage technicalities. Steinmetz program committees know they can send an order for stage settings and stage properties and have it filled expertly by the stage crew.

Lots of luck to a Sweet fellow who makes me very sometimes mad who is twice as fickle as I.
Sincerely
Martella Comerlo

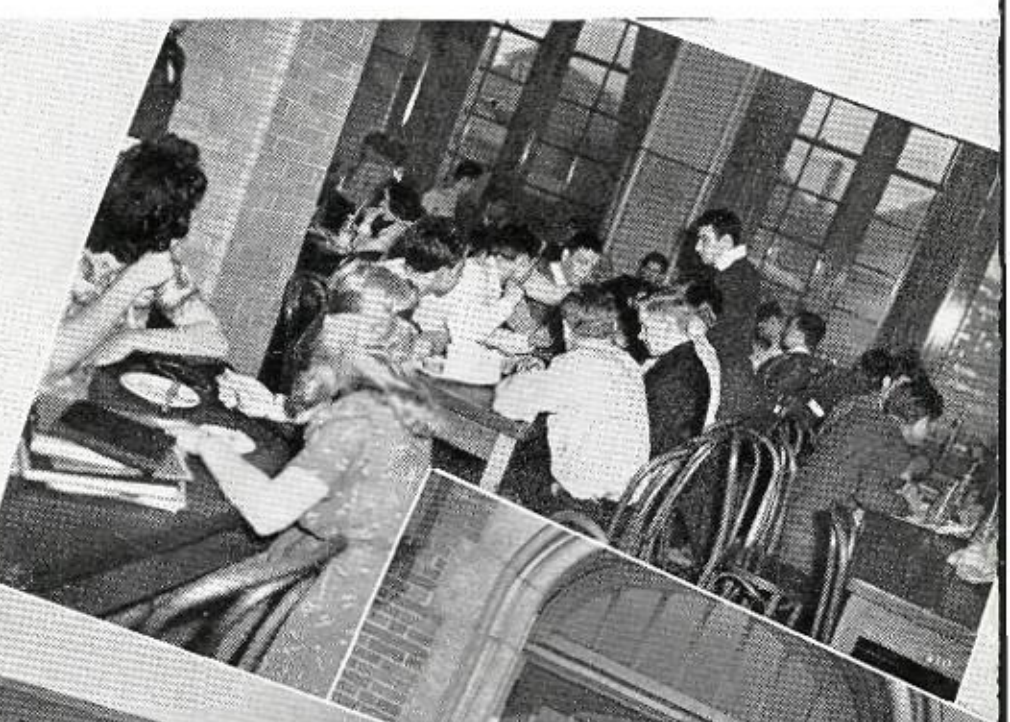
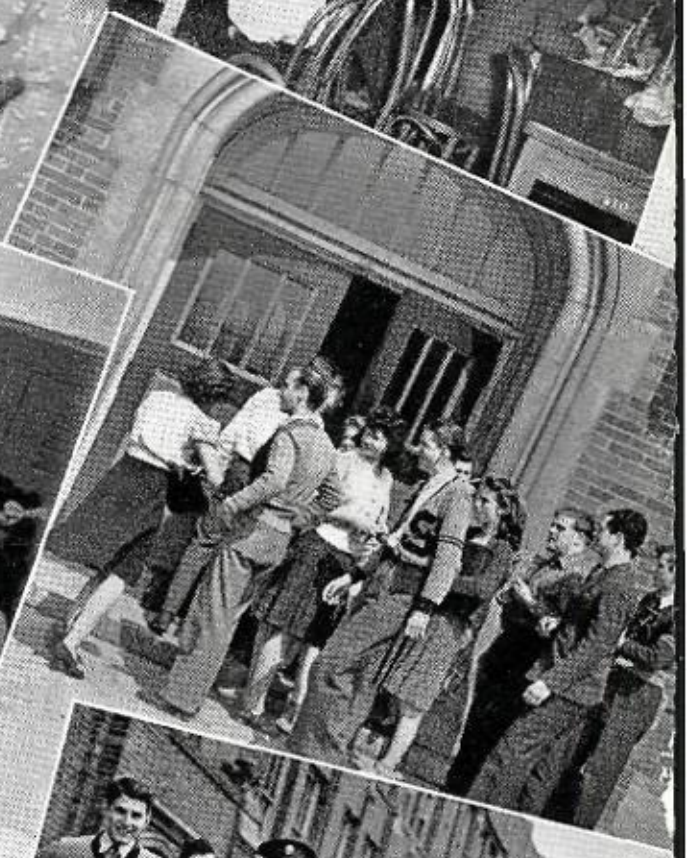
"You're absolutely right," says Mr. Bradley . . . An absorbing subject, good food, and good friends—lunch time . . . "I'll have some of this and some of that" . . . The inside secrets of a locker revealed . . . Back to class after a pause that refreshed us . . . Intermission time at the farewell dance for the 4A's . . . Reno, our swing king, "gives out" on his accordion . . . We gave the soldiers a hearty welcome.

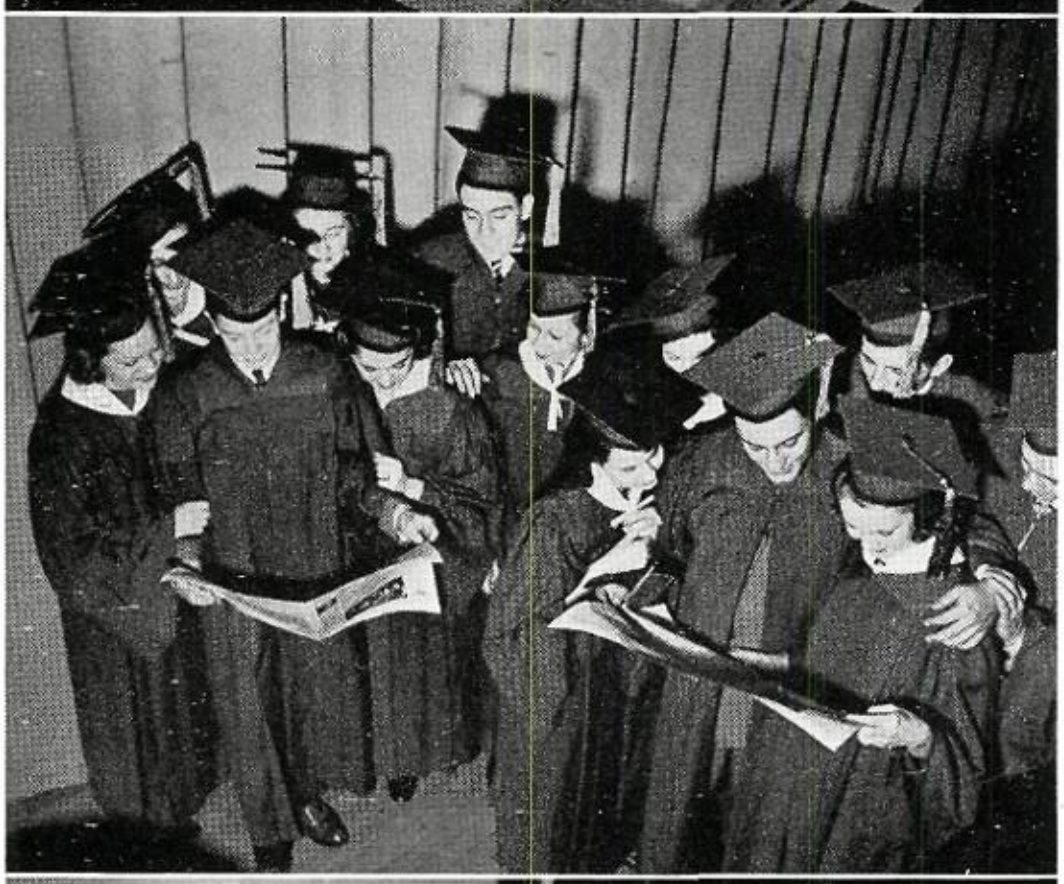




"Is this right, Mr. Ruzicka?" asks Olga Olsen . . . Frank, the doodlin' drummer boy, from Steinmetz High . . . They sip a "Coke" and gulp a sandwich . . . They visit after lunch and before division time . . . A $1,000,000 smile for Mr. Ebert from Howard Nelson, Marge Haubner, Hugh Pettigrew, and Berndt Anderson . . . Four seniors take time out . . . "Plant ivy! It's an old Steinmetz tradition," says President Harry to President Jack . . . It's a festive occasion—the senior class luncheon.

. . . And so

A pleasant tradition of graduation—we sign our names in Mr. O'Hearn's book.

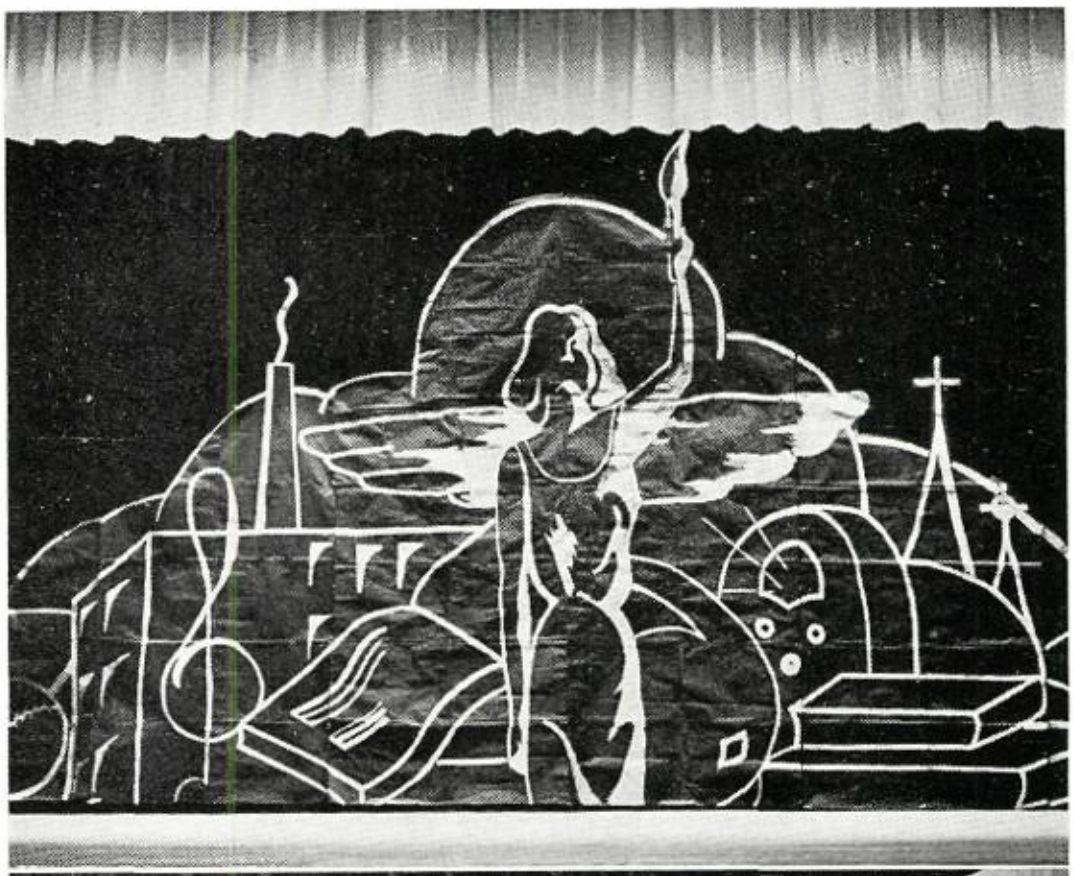


We read the Star—and see our names in the last issue.

Smiles—the expressions of graduates on Class Day.

we graduate

Symbol of Democracy in black and gold — compliments of the Art Department.



"Democracy by Choice" — theme of the January graduation program.

A solemn procession—the long awaited diploma is ours.

Yea team! Yea team! Seven rahs and a yea team! No game would be complete without these rhythm robots to lead us in cheering. Row 1: S. Walker, L. Wagner, G. Taylor. Row 2: F. Valkenaar, T. Callas. . . . Although the Steinmetz basketball teams did not place in the finals, they were a constant threat, and victory for the opponents had to be well earned . . . The highlight of the season was the night game with Foreman, in which we split a doubleheader.

Basket, Foul, Jump-ball

Watch that ball zoom down the alley! Bang! It's a strike and the pins fly in all directions. This is no surprise, for it's the day the Steinmetz Strikers get the ball. The Stratford pin boys have the blues on Mondays and Wednesdays when some of our stars step up to the bowling line and there is never a pin left standing. There is skill, fun, and good fellowship when our boys or girls bowl.

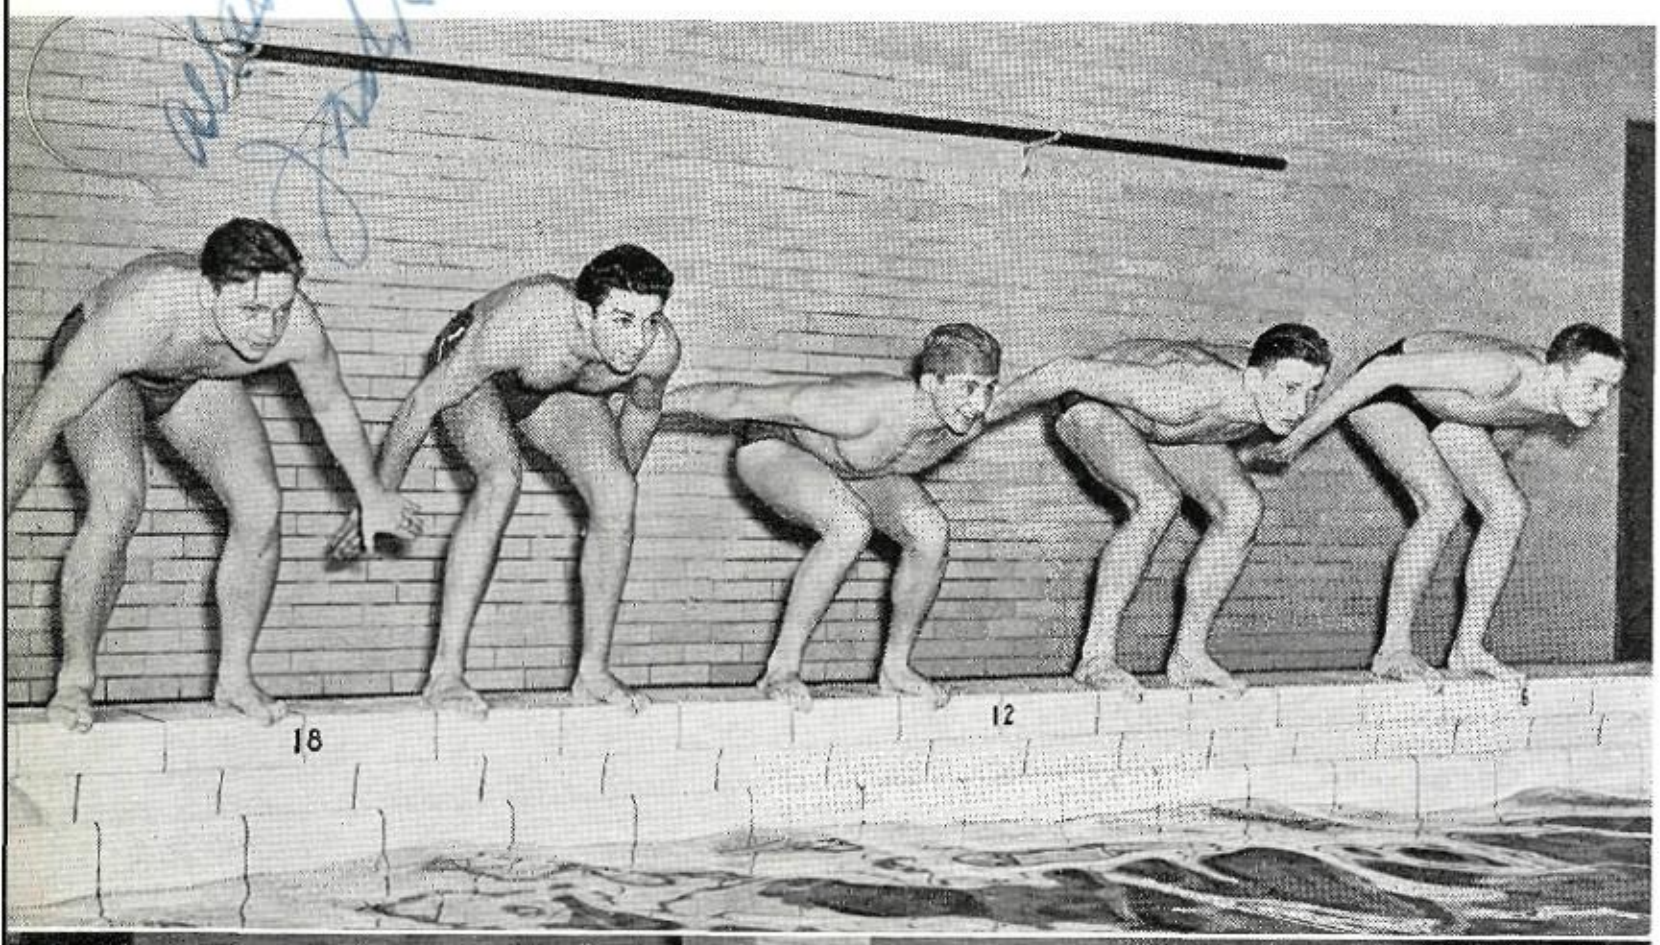
Swimming Team

On their mark and ready to go are these divers: J. Sievert, J. Composto, R. St. Louis, M. Noelte, R. Arlt . . . Typical of a modern school building is our beautiful, large swimming pool. Our boys declare it a great improvement over the "ole swimmin' hole" of years ago. They agree this sport is "all wet", but they assure us it's fun to practice for interschool competition or simply swim for the fun of swimming. Row 1: H. Bentsen, A. Pauling, K. Albert, T. Dagostino, R. Vinge, W. Ratzka, M. Hendry, E. Renowden, F. LuBien, G. Andersen, E. Eudikius, R. Chodera. Row 2: A. Carlson, R. Parker, R. St. Louis, Richard Young, Robert Young, C. Smith, C. Ronan, R. Kiney, H. Pabich, T. Taylor, B. Kern. Standing: J. Sievert, Captain. Row 3: R. Arlt, J. Composto, J. Hendry, M. Noelte, E. Berge, A. Ruck, J. Smith, R. Hammer, E. Tibbets, C. Weigel, R. Taylor, B. Hartman, E. Kowalewski.



Track

Wizards at speed are these fleet-footed track men. Indoor track meets during the fall and winter months keep the boys in trim until they are able to compete in outdoor competition. Row 1: J. Reiss, J. Spann, Q. Reilly, E. Fiorito, J. Arcucci, R. Liebenow, E. Mrugacz. Row 2: R. Wilson, B. Steinmetz, B. Cavitt, B. MacAskill, M. Pingitore, H. Matson, E. Kaufhold. Row 3: Mr. Vesel, E. Trandel, L. Granstaff, J. Jeck, R. Frelich, J. Hendry, H. Donatelli, B. Ignatius.

Golf

Low scores are what count in this man's game. Always aiming for par or below is our fine golf team. They are waiting for sunny weather and one of those rare early dismissals. Row 1: G. Goldstein, R. Schlegel, J. Corkle. Row 3: J. Malamazian, G. Zajic, Mr. P. Pfeil, C. Kura.

Baseball

Our baseball team is really going places this year. Home runs by the players and strikeouts for the pitcher keep these boys on their toes and headed for a championship. Row 1: G. Smorowski, L. Possehl, T. Dvorak. Row 2: J. Kimmeth, M. Pingitore, W. Chesney, H. Johnston, D. Canadeo, F. Marsh, T. Hamilton, R. Adams, L. Oszakewski, Captain. Row 3: G. Casterton, R. Plotkowski, R. Possehl, R. Throughout the year the G. A. A. sponsors many activities. The girls excel in every sport, whether it be swatting a "three bagger" or gracefully gliding through our pool. Horseback riding, tennis, badminton, and shuffle board are only a few of the many activities on their program. Freshmen as well as seniors are invited to participate in any of the sports. Girls not especially active in the world of sports look forward to the parties held in the gym. The most important occasion of the semester is the Award Assembly, when members are presented with their much sought for letters and chevrons.

Our symphony orchestra, under the able guidance of Mr. Willard S. Groom, has risen far above our fondest hopes. The members do not constitute a full orchestra, for our school is still new and our orchestra young; they do present music of the highest caliber. The duty of this club is to represent us at community affairs, but the most popular of its services are the fine music appreciation assemblies it presents each semester.

Ed Hagen

There's music in the air...

The R. O. T. C. Band is comprised of members of the R. O. T. C. These musicians and cadets assist in parades, reviews, and Federal Inspection. They add snap and color to these affairs with their precise marching, their martial airs, their shining instruments, and green and silver drums. This year the new epaulets of green cord on the shoulders of these musicians put the finishing touch on their attractiveness.

Golden voices - Silver capes

Pride of the Girls' Choir are the silver and green capes which they wear on festive occasions here at school and at the many city-wide activities at which they sing. This choir, directed by Mr. Willard Groom, is well known for its perfection of tone quality. In a recent high school competition for music organizations, the Steinmetz Girls' Choir again won an "S" rating.

Boys and Girls Together . . .

Melodious voices—basses, tenors, altos, sopranos are heard practicing everyday third period if you are near Room 400 . . . These boys and girls, who sing together, follow the practice of our several choral groups, that of singing for Steinmetz assemblies and community groups. This year they sang at the Smyser School, Central Church, and Orchestra Hall.

Junior Girls' Choir

Newly organized is this choir of gals with an ear and heart for music. They have a decided trend toward the social side of life as well as an interest in music. Their parties, programs, and special events are as joyful as their singing, which expresses the enthusiasm of the members and their sponsor, Miss Josephine Farr.

Cornets, clarinets, flutes

Our band, composed of ninety members, is one of the colorful sides of Steinmetz. The instrumentation is divided into sections, which practice daily in the tower room. Their rehearsals are as important as the rehearsals of the complete band, for a band is only as fine as its parts. Most of their time is devoted to practicing music but much is spent in learning marching formations. Under the leadership of Captain Dowse, the band has been an important feature at the football games and school concerts. Notes of color and charm are lent to these performances by our high-stepping baton twirlers. We are proud of our band at all times, but the drum major putting the band through its paces on the campus is a sight rarely missed by any of us.
